Cogito, ergo sum.

At Nerdium, we care about perspective.

The following questions are not to assess your knowledge or understanding of the subjects they depict.

We expect you to give any honest answer, however subjective, personal, stupid, controversial, or crazy it might be.

There are no right or left answers, nor any evaluation criteria.

We do not expect you to know what the contents are or what they mean, we simply want to know what runs in your mind when you witness them.

What do you think is the connection between these two images and Phineas holding a butterfly? *

so um...

What do you have to say about this? *

There is no word limit... just saying

If all humanity could receive one message from the universe, what should it be? *
